Mrs. Mabel Reiber received a telegram on Saturday, that her son, F/O Don Reiber, was reported killed in action. A few days previous he was reported missing.

F/O Reiber was attached to a fighter squadron and had been overseas about eighteen months.

Before leaving for overseas, he was married to Miss Audrey Elife, who resides with her parents in Calgary. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Reiber.

Tag Days For Tobacco Fund

Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be Tag Days for the Didsbury and District Tobacco Fund.

From this fund "smokes" have been sent regular each month to the boys from the Didsbury district who are with the forces overseas.

The fund is now at a low ebb and finances are needed so that these reminders, that the folks at home are thinking of them, can be continued to be sent.

When you come in for your ration books, do not forget to contribute generously when you are "tagged".

This will be Mr. Franklin's first visit to his old home in Kansas since leaving there to come to Didsbury 41 years ago. Mrs. Franklin made a trip back 18 years ago.

The subject will be, "What kind of world do you want?"

District Quota Set At $80,000.00

On Monday, October 23, thousands of salesmen all over the province will start a campaign in the interests of the 7th Victory Loan.

With Alberta's quota set at $13,000,000 which is $6,000,000 more than the objective set for the last Loan, unit chairmen all over Alberta are agreed that unremitting work over a period of three weeks will be required if the province is to attain its objective.

In this particular district, which has done exceedingly well in all previous loans, the objective is $80,000.00.

To reach this figure, the help and co-operation of everyone in the district will be required.

No one knows any better than sailors, soldiers and airmen returning from service overseas, of the value of first class equipment in the combat, fight against the Nazis and their Axis allies.

This equipment is bought with the money subscribed by Canadians to the respective Victory Loans and the forthcoming 7th Victory Loan will be no exception.

In this district, residents are invited to march side by side with their fellow Albertans from the United States border in the south to the Peace River country in the north in one grand effort to reach Alberta's $43,000,000 objective.

The slogan of the 7th Victory Loan is "Invest in Victory", so let us show our friends to the north and the south that when the final figures are counted on the last day of the campaign, an objective pennant will be flying from our highest building as a daily proof that we did not fail when called upon to do our bit on the home front.

W.C.T.U. Meeting Very Interesting

A very successful and interesting parlor meeting was held by the Women's Christian Temperance Union October 12, at the home of Mrs. V. V. Bersht. There was a good attendance of both members and friends. Seven all special numbers in song were enjoyed, after which Mrs. Hallman gave an interesting and stirring paper on the work that is stressed by the W.C.T.U. in Didsbury.

Great emphasis has been placed upon the temperance work among the boys and girls during the past year in the Sunday schools as well as in the public school. This Union holds an interesting meeting the second Thursday in each month in the homes of its members.

A wedding of interest to Didsbury and Lanfine took place at the Knox United Church on Friday, October 13, when Miss Iona Adeline, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Odden, of Lanfine, Alta., became the bride of Mr. Harold Sheils, fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sheils, Didsbury. The Rev. D. Whyte Smith officiated.

The bride, looking lovely in a floor-length gown of white sheer and lace, was given in marriage by her father. Her door-length veil was held in place with rosebuds, and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Miss Margaret Maurer, of Lanfine was bridesmaid, and Ralph Odden, brother of the bride, was the groom's attendant.

A buffet supper for immediate relatives and friends was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCoy.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheils are spending their honeymoon at Calgary and points west.

The Refugee Problem

MANY TRAGIC SITUATIONS have resulted from the war in Europe and problems of men created which may not be solved for years to come. One of the greatest difficulties in connection with the rehabilitation of Europe is that of the repatriation of refugees for it is estimated that 20,000,000 people left their homes because of the war. Many of them fled to other countries to escape the Nazis, while others were moved by the Germans to concentration camps, or used as forced labour in war industries. Many more became prisoners of war. We are told that over 7,000,000 foreign workers were absorbed into German war industries, while French prisoners of war alone numbered over 1,200,000. In restoring all these people to their homes, there lies one of the greatest problems of the present time.

Mass Migration Not Desirable

In the spring of 1940, thousands of residents of the invaded countries of Europe fled before the rapid German advance. Many were killed by enemy action, but there were also many casualties resulting from starvation and disease. Authorities are at a time faced with the possibility of this situation occurring in reverse, as when great numbers of refugees are anxious to return as soon as possible to their liberated homelands. This problem was discussed at the meeting of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in Montreal, where it was agreed that unless this forthcoming mass migration can be fully organized, there is danger of a situation as serious, in many ways, as that which existed in 1940. The task of re-establishing those who wish to return to their former homes, and of assuring food and other essential supplies during the transition period is undoubtedly a gigantic one.

Many Establish New Industries

There is another interesting and more pleasant aspect to the subject of refugees from the European war, for among them are many who have established themselves in other countries, and will not wish to return to their former homes. In Canada, industrialists representing many nationalities have set up plants which are proving of considerable economic value to the Dominion. A recent survey of forty-five foreign industries revealed that most of them, of which 57 per cent are Canadians, their annual payroll is $6,727,000, and they represent a capital investment of $7,663,000. Nearly all of it is being held by the immigrants who own the plants. New immigrants largely in the production of war materials will later produce civilian goods. These people have brought with them many skills and crafts new to Canadian industry, and it is apparent that their presence here is a decided asset in many ways.

More Important

Education Is Better For Young People Than Pay Cheques

The Huron Expositor, Seaforth, says: Perhaps half or more of the Canadian boys and girls of teen age filled regular or holiday jobs in war plants and farms this summer. How many of them have not returned to school? Will wages higher than ever before known in our history tempt a great number of these high school boys and girls to stop school before they graduate? It is a challenge that faces all parents, all teachers, all employers and all patriotic Canadians to convince these young boys and girls that school is their No. 1 war job.

The Flying Dustbins

British Weapon Breaks Down Formidable Steel Or Concrete Obstacles
"Flying Dustbins," a new British secret weapon made the first breach in Hitler's vaunted Atlantic wall during the Normandy assault on D Day, it was disclosed.

The "Flying Dustbin," so nicknamed by the Royal Engineers, is a powerful concrete-smashing bomb fired by their armored vehicle Royal Engineers' — or "Arre" — a vehicle especially designed to breach the Atlantic Wall, the Siegfried Line and similar fortifications.

The new weapon is credited with the saving of many lives as it breaks down formidable steel or concrete obstacles to ease the path of following infantry.

It is described as being generally similar to a Churchill tank and carries a crew of engineers together with specially-protected explosive charges for use in assault demolitions.

The mocking bird has been known to change its tune 87 times in seven minutes.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—I do not want to buy my canning sugar just yet because I am not sure whether I want to exchange the "F" coupons for preserves coupons. Will you tell me when the canning sugar coupons will expire?

A.—There is plenty of time yet to decide whether you want to can some late season fruit. The "F" coupons will not expire until December 31.

Q.—What particulars should I give the Wartime Prices and Trade Board when I think the price ceiling is being broken?

A.—You should put down in writing your reasons for thinking this, giving all the details: (1) The name and address of the shop; (2) The date when you think the price is being broken; (3) the price you are paying higher than the legal maximum; (4) the date when you bought a similar produce at a lower price; (5) The kind of product concerned; (6) Its selling price; (7) The weight or quantity purchased in each case. (7) If it is at all possible, you should have sales slips or other written evidence as to the price you paid in each case.

Q.—Three weeks ago my wife was taken from my car containing ration books with all my canning sugar coupons. They have not been returned. As I live on a farm and need the sugar immediately would you advise that there is any way to make my obtainable again?

A.—Yes. If your books have not been returned you should make application to the nearest local ration board for replacements. If you have sales slips or other written evidence of the ration books, take them with you.

Q.—What must I do to obtain ration books No. 2 and No. 3?

A.—First find out the location of your nearest distribution centre and the hours it will be open. Before going for your new books, fill in both the back and front of the stubs of the ration book. — Your ration book is under 16 years of age, write his or her age after the name. Do not tear the sheet out. It must be intact when you present the book in order to get a new one.

Q.—Please send me directions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper, the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Where Credit Is Due

Merchant Marine Made Lifting Of Tea Rationing Possible

The gallantry of the men in the Royal navy and merchant navy is responsible for the removal of tea and coffee rationing in Canada, David Gibson, president of the Navy League of Canada, said.

Tea and coffee rationing was introduced when shipping was scarce and the submarine danger was acute, Mr. Gibson said in a statement.

"We will never know the full story of the hardships our Allied seamen have suffered in their efforts to keep the sea lanes open and to transport needed supplies of munitions and food," he said.

Today Canada rejoices with them that their victory is exemplified in a freedom we have not had during the more perilous days of war and we gladly pay our tribute to their daring and courage."

Going Too Far

Proper For Ships Without Portholes Would Not Suit Passengers

A sinister note was sounded this week by the president of one of the country's biggest shipbuilding companies. We say "sinister," because if somebody doesn't do something about it, the man's proposal may be taken seriously and we shall find ourselves crossing the ocean after the war in ships without portholes. He says future passenger ships may have no portholes but be air conditioned throughout.

There are some things even the electronic post-war world cannot put an end to. The wavering light on the ceiling reflected from sea water is one of them. Another is the mighty swish of green water around a D-deck porthole in heavy weather. Then there is the whip of the sea wind through an open porthole and the sight of a far horizon rising and just as slowly falling when you wake up on a morning at sea.

We say, let there be no talk of porthole-less passenger ships—Christian Science Monitor.

NARROW ESCAPE—

An embarrassing error was narrowly averted the other day when one of the C.W.A.C. publicity hounds in search for the name of the Polish Consul in Montreal decided to get the information the easy way—from the door of his office. She copied down the bold black lettering which read "Grodziny Uzrzedow" and went gaily off to incorporate it in a line-up of personalities only to discover that "Grodziny Uzrzedow" meant "office hours".

TRADE—

"Right into the sheet" of Canadian soldiers has stepped Pts. Roma Tisdall, C.W.A.C., of Toronto, Ont., whose Army job is that of bobbying and repairing boots and shoes at the Ordnance Salvage Depot, at Aurora, Ont. Repairs to the foot-wear of Army men and women throughout Military District No. 2 are looked after in this Depot. Although she had no civilian experience at this type of work, Roma has learned her job quickly and well, and now she looks like a veritable veteran of the trade as she works on her brothers-in-arms' footwear for the final push to Victory.

CHAPLAINS—

First two women to be appointed as assistants to the chaplains (Protestant) are currently undergoing officer's training at the Canadian Women's Army Corps advanced training centre at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que. The women, Madeline Hawkins of Clinton, Ont., and Wilma Thomas of Victoria, B.C., will be attached to the C.W.A.C. and will serve in Kitchener, Ont., and Ottawa. Announcement of the appointments was made at a recent meeting of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, held in London, Ont. 2588

Will Take Ten Years

To Bring Belgium Back To Its Pre-War Standard

The Germans bled the Belgians white, physically and economically.

Rehabilitation experts, who kept charts of the country's decline under German occupation, estimated that it would take at least 10 years to bring Belgium back to its pre-war standard.

Many Belgian women have lost 20 to 40 pounds, and the children have been stunted for lack of sufficient food and vitamins. The Nazis had the country on a starvation basis.

The daily ration—if it could be had—was seven and one-half ounces of bread, five ounces of flour, one-third of a can of butter, an ounce of sugar, two-thirds of an ounce of meat, and 15 ounces of potatoes.

Authorities told that the people of Brussels had not seen pork or fish since the Germans moved in.

The bread was so bad dogs refused to eat it, they said. It was made of ground beans and peas, with grass and a little real flour.

The number of Belgians starving would have been greater if the people had not resorted to the black market. The number who did starve is not known.

Problem Of How The Allied Nations Should Deal With Italy Seems Hard To Solve

ALL dealings between the Allies and the Italians have been immensely complicated ever since September by the circumstance that it has never been clear, either to us or to them, whether Italy is to be regarded as an occupied or a liberated country. This dilemma was inevitable because the truth is that Italy is neither one thing nor the other, but something in between the two.

Had the Allies invaded the Balkans instead of the Italian peninsula the problem would have been simpler, at least in the case of Greece and Yugoslavia. These countries could have been treated as full-fledged Allies and given the freedom possible as long as military operations were not jeopardized. In France, too, there is full agreement that the Allied troops come in the role of liberators.

When the time comes for the occupation of Germany the situation should also be clear. The Allies will be occupying enemy country and will have every moral right to act as an occupying army. But in Italy we are dealing with a nation that was our enemy, but now enjoys the status of a belligerent.

This dilemma is even present as a moral problem in the everyday life of every one in Italy. How can soldiers who fought Italians for three years in the North African desert suddenly forget this experience and all that it meant? How can Yugoslavs and Greeks be asked to forget the atrocities the Italian army committed against their people? And the British officer who fought at El Alamein will see on the streets of Rome, may even meet socially, an Italian officer who fought on the other side of the same battle, except for the fact that Mussolini's African army never got back to Italy.

The government now is faced by a number of grave problems, some of them insuperable. The main one are the lack of sufficient food for the population; unemployment—estimated by one Italian paper at 200,000 in Rome alone; inflation; and the reorganization of the army, in which one may include the question of what to do with the disarmed partisans.

The Italians have been given the freedom of the press and have frequently used it to voice criticisms of Allied policy. Even Cabinet ministers have written frankly about the unsatisfactory food situation. The Allies should underwrite the Italian lira in order to curb inflation. The Allies should give Italians, including both regular army units and partisans, a chance to take a greater part in the fight against the Nazis.

Typical of these complaints was the statement made recently by Giuseppe Saragat, Socialist state minister, who said: "Italy has all the disadvantages of war without any of war's benefits. On the one hand we have Italy fighting with her regular forces and patriots at the side of the Allies, on the other we find the unfortunate fact that she is not invited to a conference of enormous international significance like the Bretton Woods meeting where nations having 120th the population of Italy were asked to sit."

There have been other occasions when prominent Italians have expressed the belief that Italy has earned the right to be treated as an ally. Allied authorities answer this by saying frankly that they do not regard Italy as an ally, but as a former enemy country. To other complaints the Allies' answer is that the Italians should not blame us for a situation which is the direct result of the mistakes and crimes committed by the Fascist regime. We are doing the best we can for the Italian people, but when that becomes a question of priorities war supplies come first, and that we cannot commit ourselves to maintain a larger Italian army at the front because there again, supplies are the limiting factor.

Any fair-minded observer cannot help sympathizing with Italy's terrible economic plight and with the Italian government which has accepted the responsibility without being in a position to take measures necessary to alleviate the existing conditions. At the same time he cannot criticize the Allies for insisting that the winning of the war comes first and the reconstruction and relief of Italy second. He might even be tempted to point out to the Italians that Italy, which is being defended by a former enemy country, still is better off than any of our European allies, some of whom can think Italy as well as Germany for their present sufferings.—From The New York Herald Tribune's Rome correspondent.

ODD BITS ABOUT OUR ARMED FORCES

One of the chief topics of discussion among wounded men in hospital Overseas is rehabilitation according to authorities at National Defence Headquarters.

Majestic Banff has extended a welcoming hand to members of the women's services. A Y.W.C.A. League Centre has been opened in the former home of J. W. Dallas, and the girls may revel, at cost price, in the sulphur springs and mountain lakes of "Canada's beauty spot."

Axton to simplify even the tying of shoelaces in sub-zero weather, a group of Canadian Army research workers spent 154 days testing five varieties of shoelace in every type of foot-gear, before making a final choice.

With a group of U.S. soldiers, a unit of Canadians is today writing history for Canada with sheer bravado. The Special Service Force wears, in battle, an un-adorned U.S. Army uniform. Super commandos, they trained in a shroud of deepest secrecy at Helena, Montana. Now they are fighting on the road to Berlin.

National Defence Headquarters has announced that members of the Canadian Army wounded three or more times, other than trivially, or having two wounds and three or more years' service, may apply for service in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The term of duty will be approximately six months, and will follow regular disembarkation leave.

Distributing in cash—millions of dollars a month to troops in battle zones, is the missing morale-building job of men in the Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps. Their job, executed often under conditions bordering on the chaotic, is one of the most exacting and exasperating in the field.

Not Like The Germans

British Have Entirely Different Way Of Procuring Souvenirs

Capt. Barnett Freedman, official historian was asked, on leave from Norway, where he has been collecting material for a 10 ft-long panoramic scene of the Royal Navy's actions on the invasion coast.

Having promised Mrs. Freedman a souvenir of his journey he bought for her in Bayeux a Louis XVI clock.

A Frenchman watched him make the purchase and was a little startled when Captain Freedman paid more than the clock's normal value.

"You British are an amazing people," the Frenchman said to him with apologies. "I have just seen what you have paid for that clock. A German officer would simply have walked in and taken it."

London Has Been One Place Where Interesting Customs Of Old Days Were Observed

(E. O. Hoppe in London Calling)

WHO knows that right up to the time of the London blitz a night watchman went his rounds in London, with a lantern, calling the hours? A small court, named Ely Place, has gates which are shut nightly at 10 o'clock, and from that hour until six in the morning one of the three watchmen, on duty in turn, parades round the cul-de-sac calling out the hour. Until a few years ago he also announced the weather.

Developed For War Use

Chemically Treated Fibres Will Be Used In Peace Times

There is a new inducement to hasten the end of the war in the announcement that chemical treatment of fibres, developed in recent months for war uses, has already attained such a state of perfection that women can be assured their silk stockings will be run-proof when the new process is applied to hosiery. It is all due, the explanation goes, to a deposit of submicroscopic grains of sand or silica which prevents the fibres from slipping out of the positions into which they are knitted. For the men, the same process means stockings that won't wrinkle or wilt, that will never pick up a shrift and will always retain their creases. Boston Post.

The war has put a stop—let us hope only temporarily—to another quaint custom. Every evening in term the Temple benchers were summoned to dinner by the blowing of a big horn. The custom dates back to the eleventh century, and is said to have been started because, in the days before the Thames Embankment was built, the students used to pursue their studies on the river, and the horn was blown to warn them that dinner was nearly ready. The original horn is still preserved, mounted in gold, in the strong-room of the Temple; the one now used is comparatively new, as it was only erected in the seventeenth century. The horn is made of wood, and was worked by sheer lung-power.

More than a dozen members of the Allied forces, having escaped from a prison camp, have found sanctuary within the precincts of the Vatican, and it is curious to find that there is still a Sanctuary Knock in the City of London, in the Church of St. Olave in Hart Lane, Crutchedfriars.

Sanctuary Knockers were to be found on church doors, and the fugitive criminal who touched one was safe from civil justice. It is erroneous, however, to think that a sanctuary was just a place where the criminal could not be punished. It had very strict laws of its own. The applicant had to confess to a priest, give up his arms, and take an Oath of Abjuration of the Realm. This meant that he was automatically convicted of the crime, and his life and goods were forfeit, but he was allowed a little time in which to fulfil his vow and leave the country. Sanctuary was finally abolished in 1723. The Church of St. Olave is at the junction of Hart Lane, Crutchedfriars, and Seething Lane.

Everybody knows Trafalgar Square, the Nelson Column, Landseer's Lions, the National Gallery and the pigeons. But how many people are aware that inside one of the lamp pillars there is a police station, and that a set of imperial standard measures of length are in the steps on the north side of the square?

Almost in a straight line with St. James's is another square, the other side of Piccadilly, famous for society weddings, in what has been called the "ugliest church in London." It is St. George's, the steeple of which Leigh Hunt likened to "a horn growing out of the church's neck." Sir William Hamilton married Emma Lyon here in 1791. Emma Lyon, of course, became famous later as Lady Hamilton. Strange as it may appear, the burial ground of this church lies more than one mile away. It is behind the little Chapel of the Ascension in Bayswater Road.

In the disused graveyard is a modern tennis-court and the grave of Lawrence Sterne, his body almost escaped burial. The grave was to be buried in one of those which was created by his brother Moses, the author by the obituary in the Sterne property. The author of Tristam Shandy died in Bond Street. His body was stolen by body-snatchers, but was recognized by a young doctor as it lay upon the dissecting table.

If we cross the Park, which is just opposite the Chapel, leaving it again at Hyde Park Corner, we come to a strange phallic supported by two iron pillars. It stands not far from Green Park Arch, where Piccadilly's gentle rise begins.

This is one of the very few surviving porters' rests, if not the only one in London. It looks more like a bench for giants, but in reality it was very useful as a place where porters could rest their loads for a minute or two on the hill. In earlier centuries when labor was cheap, much of the transport was done by porters. It is preserved as a monument.

There are nearly 3,000 languages in the world.

Vancouver recently held its eighth Civic Stamp Day. Assisting Miss Canada Virginia Jenkins, Shirley McCaug and Betty Russell were the three betty helpers in the above picture. The three elephants, appearing with the circus at a local theatre, and totalling 13 tons of pachydermic loveliness, toured the streets of Vancouver. Every person who purchased ten dollars' worth of War Savings Stamps or Certificates received two free tickets to the circus. During the hour and a half the elephants were doing their stuff, the young Miss Canada girls sold $750 worth of War Savings Stamps. The three four-legged beauties, Julia, Jenny and Lena, have sold about $1,500,000 worth of War Bonds in the United States.

The World of Wheat

by H. G. L. Strange

TAXES NEEDEDTO WIN THE WAR

The Wheat Pools and Line Elevator Companies announce they will handle wheat at one cent a bushel instead of the official governmental rate of three cents. The Pools have not paid Dominion income taxes for years, and so perhaps have the savings with which to do this for a certain time. The Line Elevator Companies, however, have been paying each year such income taxes.

For my part I think that this action by Pools and Elevator Companies is wrong and unpatriotic, and will harm our war effort. And I believe most farmers, after careful consideration, will agree with me. This means handling grain at a loss, and so the first result will be to deprive the Government of large sums of tax money it now badly needs to buy armaments and munitions to support our fighting sons in the dreadful battles now going on. To collect taxes at first hand from Companies is the quick and economical way for the Government to obtain a large part of the money it must have. If the Government cannot collect taxes on grain from Grain Companies, it may put on a special and costly drive to collect the same sum later from farmers individually. Our farmers, therefore, will pay their share in any event, as they patriotically will want to do. It is quicker and cheaper, however, for the Government to collect these taxes from the Companies who handle the grain, than it is to collect the same sum from farmers later.

Nation-Wide
Hallowe'en "Shell-out"

In literally hundreds of cities, towns and villages across Canada organization of Hallowe'en "Shell Out" for Milk-for-Britain is well under way. Sponsored by the Kinsmen Clubs -- and by other organizations where there are no Kinsmen Clubs -- this nation-wide effort is expected to send at least 3,000,000 quarts of milk to children in Britain's War Hospitals, Nurseries, Orphanages and devastated areas.

Last year 47 Kinsmen Clubs in different parts of Canada tried out the idea and proved its value to the community; proved the enthusiasm and interest of Canadian children in the "other fellow" and raised $97,000.00 and sent over a million quarts of milk. This year the effort is truly nation-wide.

Special Hallowe'en "Shell-Out" tickets are sold in advance, by the thousands, in neighborhood stores. These tickets are valued at one cent each and are sold in sheets (or part sheets) of 100 for $1.00. Ten tickets pays for a full quart of milk delivered in Britain.

On Hallowe'en night Canadian youngsters will dress up in their fancy clothes as usual, and they'll knock on doors, and they'll call "SHELL OUT"; only this year they'll shout "SHELL OUT -- for the kids in Britain". Householders then will "shell out" the tickets they purchased, instead of candles, etc., which are now hard to get anyway.

Rather wonderful, isn't it, Canadian youngsters working and sacrificing for Britain's youngsters who "want a drink of milk" and can't get it? Our children practising "it is more blessed to give than to receive". Canadian children sharing in a War Effort -- having their fun with a purpose, however.

Joe Citizen Says:

Invest in Victory, they say, -- with me, for one, that's quite O.K. When I've a dollar to invest I choose the buy that seems the best, and these bonds at the moment are the best thing offered by far. At least that's how it seems to me. I hope you fellows all agree! With all its blood and sweat and tears the war has lasted five long years, so anything we asked to do to see the Victory closer through, with good sound lasting peace assured, should be right cheerfully endured. Invest in Victory! I will!

I'll find a way to foot the bill! The other things I want can wait. I haven't missed them much to date.

There's MORE to do

On the fighting front our men are still "slugging it out". Each advance . . . each new sector . . . each mile that the battle front is extended . . . is hard going. Much fighting lies ahead.

There's more to be done on the home front, too. More money is needed to enable our country to carry her share of the war's cost.

Our duty is clear . . . we, at home, must provide the money. Canada must get this money from Canadians.

for EVERYBODY

Fortunately, most of us have good incomes. We can do our share.

But it is the extra effort that wins battles and we must be prepared to make extra effort on the home front. Canada's borrowing needs have been increased by some three hundred and twenty million dollars. That's extra effort that we, at home, must make. We must provide the money that is needed . . . more money than ever before.

We must keep faith with our fighting men. We must continue to work and save . . . and lend. We must all lend more.

Evangelical Church Notes

Mr. Victor Stroud, fourth ranking tenor of the United States and Canada, will present a programme of sacred song, in Zion Evangelical church on Thursday, October 19, at 8:00 p.m.

We invite all to avail themselves of this opportunity to hear this leading tenor singer. He will be accompanied by Rev. Cunningham, of the Sunday Gospel Hour.

An offering will be received to aid this radio ministry.

Women Stand Behind Control

Stressing that the fight against inflation is most important during this present period, Mr. Donald Gordon, Chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, appealed for sustained support to the women of Canada in a letter to Mrs. Frank Conroy, Chairman of the Women's Regional Advisory Committee in Alberta.

Meeting in Edmonton, the provincial committee resolved to endorse the Chairman's appeal, replying that the guardians of the household purse strings stand solidly and strongly behind price control and the controlled easing of wartime restrictions.

May Exhibit Farm Machines

Exhibits of farm machinery at rodeos, fairs, exhibitions or conventions may be resumed through recent lifting of Wartime Prices and Trade Board restrictions.

Restrictions have also been lifted on manufacture of all kinds of pumps, with labor and material shortages the only limiting factors, the Board announces.

Shoes To Have Plastic Soles

Viscole, a durable plastic formerly reserved for children's shoes, will supplement short supplies of rubber and leather soles for all types of footwear, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board states. Retail prices for footwear made with viscole will be slightly higher.

Kiddies Togs Have Priorities

"No stone has been left unturned to see that a maximum quantity of children's clothing has priority over every other type," says Mrs. Etta Dow in a letter to the Federated Institutes of Canada. Mrs. Dow is aural advisor to the Consumer Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, and referred to the question of children's underwear in her letter.

Mrs. Dow also draws attention to the fact that directives have been sent to manufacturers for an increase of one and one half million pairs of children's shoes.

False Loose Smut of Barley

Last June, we published a description of $\frac{1}{4}$ "a third barley smut," and we appealed to grain buyers, members of junior farm clubs and others to send in, for identification, specimens of what looked like loose smut.

The response to our appeal was fairly good, and we are very grateful to those from whom specimens were received. Of 591 specimens, 410 proved to be ordinary loose smut, and 181 were false loose smut.

False loose smut becomes less and less common from East to West. Of 110 Manitoba specimens, 69 (44%) were false loose smut. Of 95 Saskatchewan specimens, 95 (52%) were false loose smut, and only 20 (18%) out of a total of 130 proved to be false loose smut.

This can be explained, at least in part, by the fact that the practice of seed treatment increases from East to West. In the loose smut, ordinary loose smut is treated by ordinary methods of seed treatment; but ordinary loose smut cannot. 86% of all Alberta specimens, 70% of all Saskatchewan specimens and only 47% of all Manitoba specimens were derived from treated seed. In other words, it looks as though Alberta may be keeping false loose smut down by seed treatment.

It is also significant that of 85 Newal specimens, only nine were false loose smut. Newal is concentrated in Alberta. Of 100 Newal specimens, 40 were false loose smut. Phosphorus is concentrated in Manitoba.

Due to the limited quantity of data, the above remarks must be regarded as suggestions rather than conclusions.

These Chefs Turn Out 75,000 Pies A Year

PAstry-MAKING being the fine art that it is, no housewife who has slaved over a hot stove will agree to let a man do her dishes, like as Chief Pastry Chef for the Canadian Pacific Railway's sleeping and dining car service, the company has a great respect for the art of pastry-making. He is Chef De Rycke. He is forty, with his four assistants and some of his helpers, he makes 75,000 pies a day. He is a real chef, and can't do it in a C.P.R. dinner and order pie, whether it be chicken, raisin, blueberry, apple or what have you, recall that you will be eating the pastries in the C.P.R. dining car. Like strike-one, who has been a pastry chef in such romantic places as Monte Carlo, Ostend and Holland, to say nothing of Canada. From Windsor to Saint John, from Quebec City to Vancouver, they eat my pies! Mr. De Rycke tells you with a sweep of a flour-dusted hand.

De Rycke enrolled in the Ghent School in 1912, graduated at the end of three years in time to enlist in the Belgian Army on his 18th birthday. During the war he was in the war. "I was no hero," he modestly admits. "I cooked."

A keen motorcycleist, De Rycke travels extensively in England and on the Continent after the Great War came to Canada in 1928 and liked it so well he's never gone back. Right now, in his kitchen, which is, temporarily, one of the kitchen-cars built years ago for the Canadian Pacific's trans-Canada train, he and his helpers turn out an average of 250 pies per day. Affectionately known to all the C.P.R.'s Great Yards people at Montreal and the Great Henry Mountains, he is looking forward to the postwar year when he expects he'll be able to whet the epicure's appetite with French pastry, curlicues on the cakes, and so on. Meantime, out roll the pies in an unending stream.

MOSQUITO "CIVILIANISED" FOR BRITISH OVERSEAS AIRWAYS

The versatile de Havilland Mosquito fighter bomber is figuring in a new role in the war effort, as a transport aircraft. A number of "Transport" Mosquitos are now in the service with the British Overseas Airways, several of whose captains have undergone special training on these 400 m.p.h. aircraft. The routes are secret. The aircraft used is the bomber version of the Mosquito. It is proving of great value for high speed transport of specially urgent cargo or passengers.

Turkey Prices

Grade A young tom or young hen turkeys may sell wholesale at 39¢ cents per pound on Alberta markets until November 1, says the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Old hen turkeys are under the maximum 36¢ cents per pound, and old toms 35¢ cents per pound. Ungraded poultry is governed by the Grade B maximum wholesale price.

Wholesale prices must be observed by farmers selling to retailers. Farmers selling direct to consumers may add up to seven cents per pound to the wholesale price.

Time lost through strikes and lock-outs was 41.8% less in the first eight months of this year than for the same period in 1943, the Department of labor announced recently.

A total of 478,189 man-working days were lost up to August 31, '43, in 151 strikes involving 69,200 workers. During the first eight months of last year, 822,045 days were lost in 287 strikes involving 149,977 workers.

In August, '44, 12,771 workers took part in 23 strikes which caused a loss of 121,343 man-working days. Fifty strikes in August, '43, involved 35,645 workers and caused a time loss of 240,493 days.

The War Service Gratuity and Re-establishment Credit— OTHER ASSISTANCE AFTER DISCHARGE

The Canadian re-establishment program gives discharged members of the services assistance under a wide variety of measures during the period when they are deciding their future as civilians.

THE WAR SERVICE GRATUITY

The Gratuity Act at the last session of Parliament, and provides, after discharge, monthly payments to those honorably discharged, who enlisted for service anywhere, and to those who saw service in the Aleutian Islands, for their period of service there. It provides a basic gratuity of $7.50 for each 30 days' service in the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each 30 days' service overseas. A supplementary gratuity of 30 days' pay and allowances, with Canadian subsistence allowance, is paid for each six months' overseas service. Service in Greenland, Iceland, Norway, and any other theatre of war is overseas service. Other places in the Aleutian Islands and any other theatre of war is overseas service. Other places in the Western Hemisphere are not. Accrued, dying outside the Canadian waters, or stationed outside Canada or the United States, and Naval personnel in seagoing ships of war are regarded as overseas service.

Monthly payments not exceeding monthly pay and allowances last received will start after January 1, 1945, unless the Act is proclaimed earlier.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDIT

A re-establishment credit, equal to the basic gratuity shown above, and not including the supplementary one in available, for 10 years following discharge for constructive purposes such as purchase of a home, business, furniture or tools, or payment of premium under Government life insurance. It can also be used for modernizing or repairing a home, for working capital, or for education and other similar purposes. The re-establishment credit is reduced by any grants of a business and other similar purposes. The re-establishment credit is reduced by any grants paid while training or continuing education, or by grants paid under the Veterans' Land Act, Training and Education and Veterans' Land Act grants cannot be paid if the re-establishment credit is used, unless an adjustment is made.

AT DISCHARGE

At discharge every man and woman is advised of the re-establishment program, is given a complete medical and dental examination, and may receive free treatment for any condition shown by the examination in the year following discharge. They are allowed to retain one uniform and certain other service clothing. All discharged since August 1, 1944, receive a $100 civilian clothing allowance. And if they have 183 days' service and receive an honorable discharge, a rehabilitation grant of 30 days' pay and one month's dependents allowance, they also receive a railway warrant to their home or place of enlistment.

AFTER DISCHARGE

Some veterans seeking employment apply through Employment and Selective Service, but in many cases they will seek Veterans' Welfare Officers and other specially trained staff to assist them. Veterans who wish to return to their former civilian positions are entitled to reinstatement in that position, if the job still exists and they are capable of filling it, and to reinstatement in a similar position if the job still exists. Under the law of Canada every ex-service application is made within three months of discharge. Under the law of Canada ex-service men or women with overseas service, or disability pensions, receive preference in Civil Service appointments if qualified for the position for which they apply.

VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICERS ARE STATIONED IN KEY CENTRES THROUGHOUT CANADA. THEY ADVISE AND ASSIST EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL, AND SHOULD BE CONSULTED ON ALL PROBLEMS.

Old Theory Assailed

Nutrition Director Says Drinking Milk Does Not Assure Sound Teeth

Dr. L. B. Pett, Health Department director of nutrition, has torpedoed some old beliefs about teeth.

Addressing an Eastern Ontario dental convention, he said that milk drinking doesn't necessarily assure sound teeth, for persons who drink plenty of milk often suffered decayed teeth.

He also didn't think much of the old saw that mothers lost a tooth for every child. He had seen mothers with good sets of teeth and lots of children.

Surveys showed children with the soundest teeth lived on a consistent diet of reasonable quantities of milk, suitable and adequate quantities of cod-liver oil or some other source of vitamin B, consistent use of whole grain cereals and consistent source of vitamin C, such as citrus fruits or tomatoes, he said.

Three out of every four pedestrian fatalities are male.

Britain Is Grateful

Ministry Of Food Tells People About Canada's Egg-Drying Plants

The following is an extract from a press report issued by the British Ministry of Food to the British people regarding the high quality of Canadian dried eggs used in Britain:

"If ever you sigh for a fresh egg as you reach for the familiar brown packet of dried eggs from Canada, bring this picture to your mind. In Canada there are several full time egg-drying plants. In these there stand at long tables, rows of girls in immaculate white uniforms. The only thing these girls do is break eggs, real eggs such as you dream about, and these are steel trays, each about the size of a hula-pan. Across the top of each tray is a metal bridge with a knife-like edge. The girls break the eggs on the bridge and let the contents drop into a cup where they are examined.

"Then the broken egg passes through miles, steam and clarifiers, emerging from them as smooth, yellowish liquid resembling rich cream. This liquid is poured into stainless steel storage vats maintained at a constant temperature of 40 degrees F. From here the liquid is pumped under pressure of 4,000 pounds per square inch through a pipe, through which a pin could not pass, and is blown in a fine spray into a large metal cone 50 feet high. On the opposite side hot air is driven in. The moisture in the spray is immediately turned into steam and the substance drops to the bottom of the cone in the form of powder.

"So," continues the British Ministry to the British people, "next time you prepare an omelette or scrambled eggs from the well-known Canadian packet, don't think of it as some sort of egg substitute. Think back a bit to these girls in immaculate white who a short time before were reliving you of the effort of removing the shells from your eggs."

Canada sends to Britain about 50,000,000 dozen eggs every year.—Farm News

Saved Man Twice

Lieutenant In Canadian Navy Had An Unusual Experience

The Atlantic may be a big ocean but it doesn't try to sell that idea to Lieut. Wilfred Stokvis of Vancouver. In October, 1942, Stokvis helped pick up survivors from the ferry Caribou, sunk between Canada and Newfoundland. Recently as commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Barrie, he went to the rescue of 14 survivors in the Western Atlantic. Among the survivors was a seaman he had picked up in the Caribou sinking two years ago.

Peaches were first introduced into England from Persia in 1562.

Britain Strikes Oil

Over 200 Wells Pumping Out 26,000-000 Gallons Each Year

Britain has struck oil, it has been reported officially, confirming a previous report carried by the BBC.

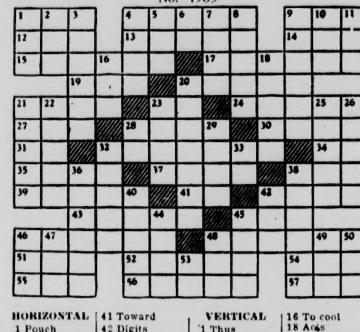

More than 200 wells now are pumping out 26,000,000 gallons of high-grade oil each year.

Since the war began the field has yielded about 300,000 tons or about 78,000,000 gallons of oil. The crude oil is described as being of excellent quality, furnishing a base for high-grade gasoline lubricants including aviation grades.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

"Act Of God"

— By —

JACK LONDON BERKEBILLE

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Jeff Parsons prayed simply, because he had a simple soul. When he awoke this morning, April afternoon and took the things that were troubling him into the shade of the big cabin he built in his overalls on the good Kentucky soil, and the late afternoon sun threw shadows of the bare branches on his lined, homely face. His voice rose, clear and strong:

"Lord, if ya hits right, Deborah should marry that shiftless no-account Cheatman, then Thy Will be done. Us Parsons kin be wrong, Lord, but hit's been a powerful long time since we had any truck with such trash as them Cheatmans."

He rose and went back to the field and picked up his hoe. Then he turned homeward, toward the small cabin in the far field where he knew his supper would be waiting.

The salt side and grits were piping hot on the table in the cabin, and his daughter, Deborah, leaned over the coal stove, neat and clean and sweet smelling. Her dark hair clung to her forehead, damp from the heat of the stove, and the firm chin and clear gray eyes were his own, reflected.

He washed in the basin on the sturdy wooden shelf and dried his face, muffling his laughter through the towel. Then he sat down at the table, and Deborah sat across from him. They are in silence.

It had been like that for weeks now. Deborah, sullen, refusing to speak. When Jeff finished his coffee he leaned back, balancing his chair on two legs. "Soon be gettin' warm, Deborah."

The girl remained silent. It was a responsibility, all right. Jeff Parsons mused. Anna dead two years now, and him trying to be father and mother both to Deborah. Things had gone fine too, until Tobe Cheatman came buttin' in. The Parsons and the Cheatmans hadn't spoken in twenty years, all on account of that ten feet of hard jutting out into the creek on the bend, just at the dividing line. It wasn't good for anything except maybe to fish from but there was the dispute as to whom it belonged, and that had never been decided. For twenty years it had stood there, a definite barrier and bone of contention between the two families.

Then Deborah and Tobe had fallen in love.

Deborah had been honest with Jeff and told him about it. But it was hard to overcome the prejudices of twenty years. Maybe young Cheatman wasn't such a bad fellow . . . but he was a Cheatman. If them jakes hadn't been so stubborn about that piece of land! They knew well enough it belonged to the Parsons!

Deborah was looking at him intently now, her dark eyes smoldering. "Pap," she said, "ain't you changed your mind yet about Tobe and me?"

Jeff Parsons coughed uncomfortably. "Now, hon, we've been through all that before. You know what them Cheatmans is like."

Deborah turned and Parsons' temper rose and stamped her foot. "You ain't gonna come between us," she flared. "You and them silly notions about that strip of no good land. Old Abe Cheatman's stubborn as a blue nose mule, and you ain't no better!"

Jeff Parsons' anger rose. "You ain't gonna marry him, Debby," he shouted. "Ain't nothin' short of an act of God ever'll convince me hit's right for you to marry a Cheatman!"

Deborah stood in the wooded doorway in the cold early April twilight, and when she saw Tobe's tall, erect figure swinging toward her tears dimmed her eyes. In his arms she started to cry. "Ain't no use, Tobe," she whispered. "He's just as stubborn as ever!"

Tobe stroked her dark hair. "There, Debby," he said softly. "Dad's the same same. Both of them hard headed as mules."

Deborah cried harder. "It's worse, Tobe," she sobbed. "Pap said last night nothing short of an act of God could make him change his mind."

The hands punched distantly, falling over the mountains, and flashes of white stabbed the sky. The spring sounds were coming.

"Act of God," Tobe repeated blankly. And then the rain fell in thick solid sheets.

"Git on home, Debby," Tobe shouted. "I got me a job of work to do!"

The rain lashed down all that night, hammering the little cabin, swishing off the roof in a thick steady stream. The roar of the creek in the field rose steadily, and bits of debris bobbed along on the crest of the flood.

When Jeff Parsons rose next morning and came downstairs he flung open the door and breathed the good morning air. The sun shone bright and hard, setting diamonds in the grass. Then Jeff's eyes widened in incredulity. "Debby! Debby!" he shouted. "Come down! Hit's happened!"

Deborah came down, rubbing her eyes. "What's happened?" she asked sleepily.

"Act of God!" Jeff Parsons shouted. "Look! Hit's gone!" The flood washed away that piece of land! Git you over and bring Abe and old Abe Cheatman here!"

When the Parsons and the Cheatmans shook hands for the first time in twenty years Jeff said: "Hit's sure enough an Act of God, Abe."

Tobe and Deborah stood apart, and Deborah's eyes shone with a soft light. "It's wonderful, Tobe, ain't it, what a little faith will do?" she whispered.

Tobe grinned. "Hit's sure is hon," he said. And wondered if he had remembered to put the pick and shovel back in the woodshed.

LAMB STEW EN CASSEROLE

Everyone will agree that a well prepared, attractively served stew rates well up on the list of flavor-some savory entries. The less expensive cuts of meat here are used to their best possible advantage—and in dramatic style.

Economical, savory with an appetizing aroma to tempt and coax the appetite, the stew is a particularly happy choice for service these days. Thoughtful menu planners now are seeking to provide the most in food value for their families at the least cost.

1 quart diced potatoes
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper

Add melted butter to crisp rice cereal and stir until well coated. Pour stew into individual casseroles and cover with cereal. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 20 minutes.

Biscuits and crackers are health foods. They consist of various combinations of wheat, bread, cheese, eggs, milk, molasses and corn syrup, biscuits and cornstarch. One good recipe makes biscuits ideal between meal snacks. Homemakers who pack lunch boxes may well put in three or four extra cookies or crackers for this purpose.
